Billings Rules.

Rule#1: Meetings don't have to be boring.

Bring your convention to Billings. Here we have a balanced life, where stuffed shirts and silk suits just don't mean as much. At least not as much as a productive day and a healthy bottom line. Here you can put more balance in your balance sheet. Come discover the good life in Billings. We think you'll find that we're growing on you!

Is what you say about your company what others say about your company?

Creating a brand strategy begins with how your company perceives itself. The success of that strategy is measured by how well your company is perceived by everyone else, where it matters most—like around the water cooler...

That's where the truth lives.

You can't completely control what everyone thinks about your company, but you can affect it. Consistency is important. At UPPERVILLAGE, we have a brand strategy system that helps your company build a great reputation, consistently, through all communication channels. You have a vision, and we help you share it with the world. Send the right message to the right people. Including those around the water coolers.
